

Office Hour Scheduler

To minimize the potential for error, user selects a single weekday per entry; providing the user with a straightforward and focused workflow. Alternatively, the trade-off here is the potential to cause confusion should the user need to schedule multiple time blocks within a single day. However, narrowing the user's focus to one block of time per day decreases mental load as well as the potential for frustration and error.

The schedule list provides feedback by enabling the user to review entries; the list displays the scheduled day, start and end time, as well as a weekly total of scheduled office hours.

Editing option grays out entry in the list while displaying entry information in corresponding fields at the top of the page.
